Our City Comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Home Buying Instinct Developing in the U. S.

ACCORDING to figures compiled by a federal census, two out of every five homes in the United States are owned by the occupant.

This figure would undoubtedly be higher in California, where the first thought of a newcomer is to buy a home. Another surprising fact brought out by this census was that out of every five owned homes three of them are free from debt. Of course this is desirable, but we do not think a mortgage on a home should deter a purchaser.

* * *

THE American people as a whole are home lovers, which undoubtedly accounts for the wonderful growth of the entire country. It is an easy matter to own your home in California. It takes a small down payment and the balance is less of a hardship than paying rent.

Many a successful business man owes his success in life to the fact that he purchased his home, without any capital to speak of.

Besides giving him the pride of ownership he assumed the responsibility of the obligation which would cause him to hesitate before spending his income in an extravagant way. Our advice to the young man beginning in life or to the man who has little money is: Do not hesitate in buying a home. An honest face and a reputation for diligence is all you need. It will turn out to be the best move you have ever made.

* * *

WE don't mean by this to advise that one should be extravagant in his purchas . You should get value for your money, even if you buy on time payments. Before you can realize it, you will own your own home and the effort will not be noticeable.

* * *

GLENDALE citizens will probably know within a few days whether or not President Harding is to pay them a visit.

The Glendale chamber of commerce sometime ago wrote and invited the president to assist in the dedication of the new Glendale sanitarium, and are awaiting a definite response. Just now the advance agent of the president is in this part of the country arranging for the schedule of the president, while in this locality and will advise if Glendale is to be on the list of favored localities.

* * *

WITH so full a schedule it is doubtful if the proper arrangements to bring the president to Glendale can be made. Pasadena is making an effort to have him visit there. If they are successful his trip could be routed through Glendale and Eagle Rock and a short stop made in transit. "The Fastest Growing City in America" would be glad to be privileged with his presence, if only for a short time.

* * *

WE would like for him to get a view of our mountains and give the once over to a city which has grown from 2742 in 1910 to 13,536 in 1920, and now can conservatively boast of 42,000 in the middle of 1923.

We would like him to come here as an American citizen and as the president of the United States, and that's the best that any American city could have for any guest.

GLENDALE PAVEMENT WAY CLEAR

Time for Protest Passed; Council Orders Work Started

3½ INCH CONCRETE

Ordinance Permits Railway Passing Track on Avenue

At its meeting Thursday night the Glendale council cleared the way for the improvement of Glendale avenue. The time for protesting this work expired at that time and as there were no protests filed and no protestants present the next step in this work was ordered taken.

This work will include the paving of the street with an asphaltic concrete base, 3½ inches thick, and a wearing surface of 1½ inches of National type wearing coat. This pavement will carry a five-year guarantee.

C. F. Stuart of the Glendale Pharmacy, stated this morning that the National company has already arranged for the purchase of gravel and other material for the job, and preparations for the construction of the National Paving Works in Glendale have already been made. It is understood that the improvement of Glendale avenue will start soon and will be completed within 100 days.

An ordinance granting a franchise to the Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railway company to establish a passing track on Glendale avenue between Maple and Windsor was passed by the Glendale council Thursday night. This will run for 25 years.

A petition for the improvement of Stocker from Pacific avenue to the western city limits of Glendale was presented to the Glendale city council last night and the proceedings for this work were ordered drawn up by the city engineer. This will consist of 5-inch macadam paving, gutters, etc.

The matter of the acceptance of a map of a tract showing the corners of Western and San Fernando road square, instead of rounded as desired by the council, was brought up by Attorney Leslie W. Tarr. It was ordered laid over for one week.

G. J. Gostoletti asked for a permit to change the set-back line on the north side of Palmer just east of Brand from 25 to 6 feet, to make way for the construction of a bungalow court. This was denied.

Building Superintendent Van Dewater was granted an allowance of $30 per month to cover the cost of operating his machine when on city business.

Bids for the improvement of Garfield avenue and Monterey road with cast iron pipe were opened and referred to the city engineer.

An ordinance was adopted calling for the opening and widening of Doran street.

A resolution was adopted ordering the work on Alexander and Milford streets.

Another resolution ordering the work on Dryden, Pacific and Columbus, was adopted.

An ordinance abandoning the proceedings for the opening and widening of Stanley avenue was introduced.

Map of Tract No. 6802 was accepted.

POLICE COURT TO PAY FOR WORK ON CITY STREETS

Excess Over Estimate to Be Applied to Various Work

The $7500 excess over the estimate of $25,000 income from police court fines for the present fiscal year will be spent to cover the costs incurred in improvement proceedings and proceedings for the opening and widening of streets that were abandoned, protested out or completly under private contract, according to action taken by the Glendale city council Thursday night.

Throughout the year there are numerous street work jobs that are protested out or abandoned for one cause or another and it is to cover the expense of these that this excess in the returns received from fines has been set aside.

The following resolution, covering this matter was adopted by the council:

Resolved by the council of the city of Glendale.

Section 1. Whereas it appears to the council that in the general budget for the present fiscal year the income to be received from police court fines was estimated at $25,000, and

Whereas it appears that there is available revenue derived from said fund from police court fines in excess of $7,500, over and above the amount estimated, as revenue therefrom.

Now, therefore, as a supplement to said budget the sum of $7500 of receipts from police court fines in excess of the estimate receipts from said source is hereby appropriated for the the payment of the costs and expenses incurred in improvement proceedings, and proceedings for the opening and widening streets, which said proceedings have been abandoned, protested out or completely under private contract.

GUTHRIE RETIRES FROM BUSINESS OFFICE WORK

Proposes Sale of West Broadway Headquarters to Get a Rest

Announcement was made today that Charles B. Guthrie, one of the most prominent figures in Glendale real estate for the past 3½ years, is to sell his business at 110 West Broadway.

"I simply want to arrange matters so that I can spend more time with my own private affairs, with my family and with my business," said Mr. Guthrie, when announcing his intention to relinquish his office on West Broadway.

"Anyone coming into this office for one day and seeing the tremendous amount of matters to claim my attention, will realize why I want to sell in order to spend more of my time attending to my personal affairs. I think it is about time I started to check up on my affairs, after the whirlwind of happenings during the past three and one-half years, which have been big years in the development of Glendale."

Mr. Guthrie intimated that when he has sold his business here, he will leave for the east on a pleasure trip with his wife and daughter, Catherine. He contemplates the erection of a building at the corner of Central and Broadway, but was unable to state whether or not construction would be started on this before the trip or after his return. "The size and type of the building will depend on the developments on Central avenue in the near future," he stated.

CITY COUNCIL SEEKS TRUTH ON TAXES

The total assessed valuation of the property in Glendale at an earlier date than now given.

PACIFIC AVE. BRIDGE WALK IS APPROVED

Four Foot Sidewalk Is Decided Upon by the City Council

SAFETY FIRST URGED

Eliminates Chances of Injuring School Children by Autos

The city engineer of Glendale was instructed by the Glendale council Thursday night to bring in an estimate of the cost of constructing a 4-foot walk along one side of the Pacific avenue bridge, the idea in the construction of this path being to eliminate all chance of injury to school children who pass over that bridge on their way to school.

The matter was brought to the attention of the council by O. Doty, a resident of the northwest section.

"That is a very dangerous point," said Mr. Doty. "My little girl, just the other day, was crowded to the side of the bridge by an automobile and her bicycle broken. Other complaints have been made recently. I believe the people of that section would be willing to be assessed for a good bridge to be constructed at that point."

"There certainly should be a good bridge at that point," said O. M. Newby, "and I too believe the people up there would be willing to be assessed for that purpose. However, I believe it would be well to construct the proposed walk along the present structure at this time."

HARDING TELLS OF LABOR AND ITS PROBLEMS

Reviews Efforts of Government on the Industrial Field

By L. C. MARTIN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WITH PRESIDENT HARDING, BUTTE, Mont., June 29.—Looking over the business situation today "from the pinnacle of our present prosperity," President Harding sees much to be cheerful about and nothing to cause worry, he told an audience here today in a speech on "business and the government."

The speech was devoted entirely to a review of the efforts of the government, capital, labor and the whole American people to get the country back on its feet in a business sense following the war.

"I wish to pay tribute to the business men of America, to labor, both organized and unorganized and to my assistants in the administration," said Mr. Harding. "It was the fine co-operation of business men and labor assisted by the agencies of government that made possible this rehabilitation of business."

"There was a common effort," the president said, "which proved to be one of the finest demonstrations of applied altruism and intelligent unselfishness that has ever been accomplished on a like scale."

There was, he said, a "national mobilization," to meet the problems of peace, and it was "no less accomplishment than the great cooperation to win the war."

He contrasted the American method with the procedure of other nations.

"Some of them," he said, "concluded that civilization was already a derelict and proceeded to scrap its institutions and substitute new and strange experiments. We have little occasion to regret that our country disappointed those who wished us to engage in similar bizarre programs. If our procedures have been plain and old-fashioned, they have yet produced the results that justify pride and require no apologies."

1923 MODEL FACE HAS STREAMLINE NOSE, HE SAYS

Used Countenances Are Brought Up to Date and Repaired

By M. D. TRACY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—The 1923 model face has a streamline nose.

That was made clear here today before the annual convention of the American Medical Society when Dr. L. F. Berne of New York, expert on noses, told how to remodel off sized and "seconds" in nasal appendages.

He told how, by paring away here, straightening there, and adding something another place, a "humped nose, markedly deflected and slightly elongated," may be made presentable in the best society.

Another operation was described by which a bulbous nose can be made as perfect as the one Douglas Fairbanks wears.

He warned that the tip of the tip of the nose must always receive special attention "when a perfect result is desired."

But not all of the time was given to noses.

COMMUNITY DANCE IS SUCCESS

Val Hollister Welcomes Guests; Mrs. Widdows Leads Singing

Over 300 young people of Glendale accepted the invitation of Community Service to attend the first party given under the dancing division of social recreational activities, with Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson as general chairman of that branch. The dancing party was held Thursday night in the ballroom of the Tuesday Afternoon club house. Music for dancing was furnished by a 5-piece orchestra.

During the evening Mrs. W. Q. Widdows led in community singing. V. M. Hollister, president of Glendale Community Service, made a short talk of welcome to the young people and introduced Mrs. J. R. Case, chairman of the social recreation committee. Mrs. Case stated that dancing was only one of the activities planned by the committee and urged the young people to fill out cards that had been distributed, checking off the activities they were most interested in.

Among the activities suggested on the cards were community singing, glee club, wramatics, hiking and picnics, horseback riding, week-end trips, folk and aesthetic dancing, swimming, tennis, volley ball, indoor baseball, bowling, golf, dancing and basket ball.

Mrs. Hutchinson had as her assistants for the evening the following patronesses: Mrs. C. C. Cooper, Mrs. A. R. Eastman and Mrs. C. B. Guthrie. Miss Grace Crampton, chairman of the reception committee, was assisted by Miss Dorothy Morton, Miss Olive Bell Emery, George B. Peddicord, George Hastings and George Flewelling. The refreshments committee included Miss Ruth Ryan, Mrs. Almena Bullock and Miss Mildred Mentzer. Miss Ruth Spafford had charge of the punch, assisted by Miss Nora Dowdle and Miss Ruth Frost.

HORRORS OF THE FLORIDA LUMBER CAMPS ARE TOLD

Boy Convict Is Lashed 119 Times When He Is Helpless

LAKE CITY, Fla., June 29. (United Press).—One hundred and nineteen lashes were inflicted on Martin Tabert as he lay helpless on the ground by Walter Higgenbotham, according to testimony given in the murder trial of the lumber camp "whipping boss" today.

Nina Bell, a former guard at the Putnam Lumber company's camp, where Tabert was a leased convict, testified:

"Once when the lash curled around Tabert's back, he screamed: 'Oh, Lord, have mercy upon me.'

"Higginbotham dealt more severe blows, saying, 'you needn't call on the Lord, I am doing this whipping. I'm boss of this camp.'"

Bell said Tabert pleaded with Higginbotham not to whip him. The witness was not allowed by the court to answer whether Higginbotham was under the influence of liquor during the whipping.

Eddie Waters, another guard, said he saw only forty blows struck, but substantiated the remainder of Bell's testimony.

Similar statements were made by Eddie Waters, who said he watched the floggings.

LACK OF GAS ENDS TRY FOR FLIGHT RECORD

[By Associated Press]

SAN DIEGO, June 29.—Lack of gasoline, combined with a dense fog which had come in from the ocean and obscured the surface of the bay was responsible for Captain Lowell Smith and Lieutenant John Richter, army aviators, meeting with an accident when they endeavored to make a landing at Rockwell Field early this morning and bringing to an end their attempt to hang a number of world aviation records. Lieutenant Richter was slightly burned by gasoline when the plane struck on some mud flats in the bay, but Captain Smith escaped injury.

At the same time the forced landing was trying to be effected, Smith and Richter had practically exhausted their supply of gasoline. The reserve tanks of the plane are said to have contained plenty of fuel, but the feed pipe had become clogged and the aviators were therefore unable to use any of this gasoline. At the time the flight was concluded Smith and Richter had been in the air almost 24 hours and had covered a total distance of 3205.55 kilometers.

New speed records for both 2500 and 3000 kilometers were made by Smith and Richter, the new record for the former distance being 18 hours, 15 minutes, 8 1-5 seconds.

PARK AVENUE WIDENING PROTESTED

Project Is Referred to City Engineer to Investigate

MANY OBJECTIONS

Plan Is Based on the Possibility of Bridge Location

A wave of protest swept over the Glendale city council Thursday against the proposed widening of Park avenue from Central to San Fernando. It was backed by residents of Park, some from east side and some from the western section. One or two east side residents did not want Park avenue opened because of the assessment that would necessarily follow. Those living on the west end of the avenue, from Central to San Fernando road, protest against widening Park along that stretch, some because of the palms and trees that would have to be taken out, others because they did not want to give the additional land.

It was proposed to open Park from Glendale avenue to Tyler, to pay for which work, an assessment district would be formed.

It was also proposed to take 10 feet from the south side of Park from Central to San Fernando, and a like footage from the north side of the street from San Fernando to the Southern Pacific tracks. This was proposed in order to straighten the street

"The reason for this effort being made to straighten Park is on account of this street being destined to be one of the leading crosstown thoroughfares," explained Charles J. Griffin of 1035 South San Fernando road. "Park avenue has been selected as a terminal for one of the bridges across the river to Griffith Park. The east end of Park would connect with the Sycamore Canon boulevard. This would make Park avenue one of the leading crosstown thoroughfares, which should be at least sixty feet wide and as straight as it is possible to make it."

"I have lived on Park avenue for twenty-seven years," said Mrs. D. H. Imler, "and I own the 400 feet of palms that are in front of my place. I protest against these being removed. They are thirty-five years old and as pretty as any in the state. These would have to come out if you take the ten feet as suggested."

Several other property owners offered protests along the same or similar lines.

The council finally decided to lay the matter over for one week during which time Deputy City Engineer Stone will interview all of the property owners in the district effected to learn their desires in the matter.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—The birth of an island is described in a report received by the hydrographers' office from Captain Geo. B. Generaux, master of the steamship Jacox, who declared he was an eye witness to at least part of the phenomenon.

Recently while on his usual route from Singapore, the captain said, a violent disturbance was noted on the surface of the sea at latitude 10.07 north and longitude 109.00.03 east, where a mass "dark in color, with straight sides, about 100 feet in height and between two and three miles in length" had risen above the waters.

SWAPPING IS NEXT TO BUY FROM WINDOW

Things You Would Like to Purchase, May Be Had Now

INVESTED EXCHANGE

What Is Needed May Be Had From Those Who Want

BY JENNIE SWENSEN

In the window of a store you have seen something that you wanted particularly. But you did not have the money to buy it.

Somebody bought the something you wanted. In fact, quite a number of people bought some of those things you wanted.

Now, of the many who bought, some may like now to get rid of that particular article, and have for it something else.

Therefore, the Swap Column, a column of reflected invested wealth of folks who would like to change the form of their investments. Everything you have that you do not want, excepting a bad temper, bad debts and urgent creditors—can be exchanged. Why not try to find the other man or woman in the swapping column?

Inserting swaps in the swap column of the Glendale Daily Press has the same effect as casting a pebble into a still pool of water.

Ripples gradually widen out in circles that take in more and more area, until they reach the farthest corners of the pool. So it is with the swap column. Outlying districts in Glendale, and the cities of Eagle Rock and Burbank are all represented in this column, which has attracted wide interest among all classes of people.

Varied and attractive are the offers to be found in the swap column. These are serious business offers that merit investigation. To those who are looking for business opportunities, the swap column should serve as a veritable series of opening doors. These opportunities also include a chance for the person interested to swap something in his possession for them.

If you are looking for a business opportunity why not tell the public through the swap column what you have to give in exchange for it? This would simplify matters, and the very chance that you have wanted may come in answer to your swaps.

Many of the advertisers who inserted their swap ads in the first cofumn, which started last Saturday, have withdrawn their ads because they have received so many offers that they did not deem it necessary to continue their advertising. Now a few of these are considering new trades to be made.

You might think that the things you possess could not possibly be of interest to anyone else, and that they would not care to trade, but just for the sake of convincing yourself look over the items in the swap column, and see if you can think of anything more unusual than the offers made.

The swap game has just started. It is to go on from day to day and week to week. It is the youngest child of the Glendale Daily Press, and it is certain that all are interested in watching its development. And the columns headed "Swap, swap, swap" say to the reader, "Watch us grow. You are reading this, why would not a prospective swapper?"

HIGH SCHOOL BOARD HEARS OF PROGRESS ON THE NEW PLANT

Elects Ten New Teachers for Work of Next Year in the Building Now Under Construction; Other Matters Come Before Trustees

The last regular session which the board of trustees of Glendale High will have for several weeks was held Thursday evening at the high school when John C. Austin, architect, made a very satisfactory report on the progress of the new buildings and committees were appointed to work with him in the carrying out of details during the summer.

Mr. Austin stated that draughtsmen are at work on plans for the grounds to give a proper setting for the buildings and provide for athletic fields and courts, and Captain Thomas D. Watson and A. W. Tower were made a committee to work with him in the carrying out of such plans which when completed will be submitted to them.

The architects were instructed to prepare specifications for lighting fixtures and cafeteria equipment so that bids may be advertised for and contracts let.

Committees that are circulating petitions for a system of ornamental lights on Broadway appeared before the board which expressed its approval of the movement but stated it had no funds available to meet the expense of such lights.

A similar statement was made relative to the paving of the alley on the west side of the present high school site and the repaving of Colorado on which the two school sites abut. It was estimated that the cost of paving the school frontages would be in the neighborhood of $8,215. Though the board heartily approved the improvements, it is without funds to finance its share.

There was general discussion of the budget for the coming year as outlined by Principal Moyse and Business Manager Oliver representing a total of $318,500 for running expenses, equipment and supplies outside of any bond money. It was explained that the moving of the school from one plant to another means increased expense for equipment and also that ten new teachers will be added to the faculty.

This completed the business of the evening except for the election of new teachers. H. H. Wiebe, at present on the staff of the Security Trust and Savings bank of this city, was elected as instructor in history. He is a graduate of the Nebraska State University and for four years was an instructor in Bethel College, Newton, Kan.

Miss Ida A. Wilshire, a graduate of Mills College, who has been teaching in San Bernardino the past year, was elected to carry on the physical education work of Miss Knight who goes to Columbia for a year's study.

Miss Eleanor Plaw, who for the past seven years has had charge of art work in the Mt. Diablo Union high school at Concord, Calif., was elected for free hand drawing to carry on the work of Miss Abbott, who has been granted a six months' leave of absence for an European tour. She is said to be a woman of commanding personality.

Miss Beulah Woods was elected for architectural and mechanical drawing. She is a graduate of the University of California and did work at Mare Island for the government during the war, testing the strength of materials and supervising the work of a draughting corps. For the past two years she has been instructor in the California Polytechnic school at San Luis Obispo, but the faculty having been cut down through the reduction of state funds, she was released.

1000 PROTEST CHANGE IN S. P. DEPOT LOCATION

Biggest Petition Ever Formed Filed With the City

A petition signed by about 1000 Glendale citizens and protesting against the purchase for $8,500 of two lots which connect Gardena street with the Southern Pacific company's right-of-way to be used for street purposes, was presented to the Glendale council Thursday night by Harry Hague, 1227 South Central avenue, who stated in presenting this petition that he was acting as representative of the Glendale Depot association.

This petition was one of the largest ever presented to the Glendale city council and was headed by Mrs. Annie Fischer, 417 West Cypress street.

The petition maintains the fight on the location for the new Southern Pacific depot at this city. The company originally wanted to build the depot at the foot of Eulalia street. Pressure was brought to bear on the company, however, by those who wished the station placed at the foot of Cerritos and it agreed to place it at Cerritos if that street was opened.

Action was finally taken by the council to the effect that it is that body's intention to purchase the two lots at the foot of Cerritos at a cost of $8,500 to the city, a number of private citizens to pay the additional $6,000, which is necessary to secure the lots.

Those favoring the Eulalia street site then set to work collecting the names on the petition which was presented to the council Thursday night.

No official action in connection with the purchase of the two lots has, so far as is known, been taken up to this time, definite action having been postponed until early in July for legal reasons.

An unofficial undertanding was reached, however, between the council and those favoring the Cerritos site, this being to the effect that if those favoring this site will pay $6,000 toward its cost the council will vote to pay the additional $8,500 out of the funds of the city.

A payment has been made on these lots, it is understood, by those favoring the Cerritos avenue site, the claim being made further that the property is now in escrow.

BOY SCOUTS TO LEAVE JULY 30 FOR ARROWHEAD

Forty-five in the Band That Pioneer the Royl-Kent Camp

Forty-five local boy scouts will leave Glendale early tomorrow morning for Camp Royl-Kent near Lake Arrowhead. These scouts will remain at the camp ten days, returning to Glendale about July 9.

Frank C. Ayars, chairman camping committee, visited the camp Thursday and reports that everything is in readiness for the contingent of scouts going up tomorrow. "The patrol leaders' conference camp, which ends Saturday at noon, is going over big," he said.

Through the quick work of pioneer squad a forest fire was subdued almost single handed by the scouts. B. W. Switzer, chief ranger, commended the boys very highly for their prompt and efficient work, declaring he had never seen a group of boys handle a fire in such a business like manner.

The camp cook is the big success of the camp. All the scouts are exceedingly pleased with the food and the wholesome way it is prepared.

All scouts who have made application for reservation for this tenday period are urged to report at the district scout office, 103½ S. Brand not later than 5:45 Saturday morning.

Many parents and others have pledged their cars to transport the scouts to the camp. These people are also urged to be at starting point on time.

At the close of each burst of oratory the speaker was complimented by some special fell rendered by exeeutive board members with fine talent. RUTH WATERMAN WEDS KENNETH JACKSON

Pretty Wedding at Home Bride on Dorothy Drive

By GERTRUDE GIBBS

One of the prettiest weddings Glendale has seen was celebrated Thursday night at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Mary K. Waterman, at 1443 Dorothy Drive when her daughter, Ruth E. Waterman, became the bride of Kenneth Jackson, son of Postmaster and Mrs. D. Ripley Jackson.

The ceremony at which Dr. Geo. H. Cornell officiated, was performed under a floral arch of asparagus fern and pink and white sweet peas, to match seemingly the coloring of the very pretty bride.

She came to her nuptials gowned in white satin with an over-dress of pineapple cloth heavily embroidered in silk, which had been imported from Turkey 30 years ago and formed a part of Mrs. Waterman's wedding gown. The dark hair of the bride was crowned with a coronet of white satin beaded with pearls to which was attached her filmy wedding veil, and she carried a conventional bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley, white roses and orchids.

Just before the ceremony, D. Ripley Jackson sang and then to the strains of the wedding march played by the Shrine orchestra, the bridal party made its entrance.

Mrs. Nelson Van Wormer in an apricot colored gown of changeable taffeta was matron of honor, and Grace Jackson, sister of the bridegroom, maid of honor, gowned in white lace over pink silk. Four bridesmaids completed the chain of attendants, all in organdie gowning in a rainbow of pastelle shades, over pink silk, viz.: Louise Hollenbeck in orchid, Dorothea Vogel in green, Murray Longley in blue, and Dorothy Chandler, cousin of the bridegroom, in peach color.

Two little maids who are cousins, were flower girls—Isabel Phister in lavender, and Anne Lambert of Los Angeles in pink.

Most picturesque of all was the tiny ring bearer, Junior Van Wormer, a babe of 15 months, in black satin trunks and white satin blouse.

Edwin Chandler, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man: the four supporting ushers being George Fraley, William Farner, Brigham Bennett, and Warren Meeker, the entire bridal party being composed of young people with whom bride and bridegroom had been on intimate terms of friendship in Glendale Union high school.

Following the reception which succeeded the ceremony, refreshments of ice cream in individual moulds, and wedding cake were served. Very elaborate and beautifully decorated in frosting were the pyramidal bride's cake and the corresponding bridegroom's cake, a special gift from Hazen Titus of fruitcake fame.

To Postmaster and Mrs. Jackson the day was of special significance because it was the anniversary of their own wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jackson have been the recipients of many beautiful and valuable gifts, one of which was a handsome bedroom suite from the bridegroom's father. The list includes, however, linen, silver, china and a quantity of engraved and cut glass.

They will be at home to their friends after July 15 at the home of the bride's mother, who is unwilling to part with her daughter. Mr. Jackson is in the employ of the Stewart Warner Products company of Los Angeles.

Guests bidden to the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Arvin Van Wormer and daughter Betty, Mr. and Mrs. Swain Van Wormer, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Van Wormer and little son, Mrs. Katherine Stalder, Mrs. Hilda Commons, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Fish, Mrs. Hattie Ellis, Miss Mildred Cole, Mrs. N. Bray, Mrs. M. Vogel, all of Glendale; Mrs. S. Stone, of Glendale; Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Corneilssen, of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. J. Watson, of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Meeker and family, of Glendale; Hazen Titus, of Los Angeles; Congressman and Mrs. Walter F. Lineberger, of Long Beach; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. NEW CROOK FILM AT THE T. D. & L. OPENING TONIGHT

A woman with four faces!

Betty Compson had an opportunity to emulate Nick Carter, Old Sleuth, Old King Brady, Sherlock Holmes and the rest of the great clan of super-sleuths in her new Paramount picture, "The Woman with Four Faces," which will be the attraction at the T., D. & L. Theater for two days beginning tonight.

Not that Miss Compson is a detective—on the contrary, she plays the part of a girl, crook engaged by the district attorney (played by Richard Dix), to help him in ferreting out a great drug combine. Disguised, she aids him in many ways and wins his love in the bargain.

One thrill piled on top of another, all played in the tense and highly dramatic manner demanded by this type of story, renders the picture exciting and compelling.

U. S. VETERANS' BUREAU TO BE MOVED

New Quarters Secured at Fifth and San Pedro Streets

On June 30, 1923, the U. S. Veterans' Bureau, Los Angeles, will move to new quarters in the Westinghouse building on Fifth and San Pedro, where they will occupy the entire fifth floor of this building.

The U. S. Veterans' Bureau was created by an act of congress in August, 1921, to properly care for the disabled soldiers of the late World war. This work has grown rapidly throughout the United States and the U. S. Veterans' bureau is now the largest single department of the government today, spending $450,000,000 annually for vocational training, hospitalization and compensation.

One hundred and fifty-six thousand men and women have been in vocational training in the United States of which 99,000 are still in training, 30,000 having been rehabilitated. The Los Angeles office is now the largest sub-district office in the United States and is expending approximately $5,000,000 annually in this city.

Major Louis T. Grant is manager of District twelve, which is composed of the states of California, Arizona and Nevada, with headquarters at San Francisco. Mr. K. J. Scudder is sub-district manager of the Los Angeles territory with headquarters in the Westinghouse building. The Rehabilitation section in the Los Angeles office is under the supervision of Mr. A. G. Waidelich, the Administration section under Mr. A. D. Borden, the Medical section under Dr. E. L. Wemple and the Co-operation section under Mr. C. E. C. Burnett.

The Los Angeles territory extends from Santa Maria on the north to the San Diego line and also includes Clarke and Lincoln counties in Nevada, 67,525 square miles.

Work in the Los Angeles office has grown rapidly in the last four years. From a small beginning it has increased to an enormous organization with a staff and clerical force of 225, administering relief and training to approximately five thousand disabled veterans. There are approximately 2500 men in training who receive an allowance from $100 to $175 per month maintenance for themselves and dependents. The Los Angeles office is paying out each month in the neighborhood of $300,000 for this purpose.

After ten months of careful study, the plans for the new office have been completed and as a result Los Angeles will have one of the most carefully laid out offices in the United States. Almost every phase of relief work will be adequately handled. The X-ray equipment is the best on the Pacific coast, a complete pharmacy and drug room for the relief of veterans is also provided together with a splendid eye, ear, nose and throat clinic, twelve medical examining rooms, clinical laboratory for urinalyses and Wasserman tests, complete electro-therapy and hydro-therapy department in which electrical massages and treatment as well as continuous and cabinet baths will be available; also a dental department, composed of eight dental units, oral surgery and dental mechanics' laboratory. An additional feature in the new office will be the surgery department in which minor operations, such as tonsillectomies will be performed. There is ample rest space available for patients taking electro-therapy or hydro-therapy treatments.

The Veterans' bureau plans to make this a record move without loss of time from the regular work. The moving will begin Saturday and continue all night Saturday and Sunday and we expect to be in the new quarters and ready for business on Monday morning.

The good record of the Los Angeles office relative to service administered to the disabled ex-service men in this territory is due to the efficient way in which the entire staff has endeavored to administer the responsibilities assigned. The majority of the members of the Los Angeles staff are ex-service men and women who are taking a vital interest in the great problem which is before the nation in the medical care and successful rehabilitation of men who were injured in its service.

The co-operation of the various ex-service men's organizations, the newspapers, the American Red Cross, the Women's clubs and others has been greatly appreciated by the U. S. Veterans' bureau.

On July 11 the Veterans' bureau invites the public to attend an open house in its new quarters in the Westinghouse building from 2 to 4 p. m., at which time it will be our endeavor to impress upon the public the fact that the United States government is doing everything in its power to care for the war's disabled and that the only way this job can be accomplished is through a continuation of the spirit of co-operation which has existed on the part of the public and a more thorough understanding of our problems relative to this great task.

START BABIES RIGHT

RENO, Nev., June 29.—The child welfare division of the Nevada state board of health, assured of a working capital of $16,000 from state and federal funds, is making preparations to start activities at once under the provisions of the Sheppard-Towner bill. The state will be divided into seven districts and a trained child welfare nurse will be placed in charge of each district. Instructions will be given to mothers in pre-natal, bathing, sanitation, and general care of babies and children. Nurses will be placed in communities where the need is greatest.

AUTO PARK ATTRACTS

TUCSON, Ariz., June 29.—Since the establishment of Tucson's auto camp park, two years ago, an average of twenty-one motorists per day have camped here, while a tabulation of all registrations indicate that 14,837 tourists spent one day at the park, according to a report just issued by the chamber of commerce. The total number of cars stopping at the park reached 4,716. Of these 479 came from points within the state, while the remaining 4,237 were from outside Arizona. Car-days spent at the camp totalled 6,849.

PILGRIM'S PROGRESS SECOND

NEW YORK (United Press).—Next to the Bible, Pilgrim's Progress, by John Bunyan, which first appeared in 1678, has been translated into more languages than any other book. According to information received through the reference librarian of the New York public library, the number now exceeds 107 languages and dialects.

ORGANIZE AXE ORDER

RENO, Nev., June 29.—The "Order of the Axe" has been formed at the University of Nevada here. The purpose of the organization is to entertain all visiting athletic teams and to aid in the management of athletic activities, or public functions, given by the university.

If colored clothes remain wet too long, no precautions can prevent the colors from running into streaks, and this will certainly happen if they are allowed to lie in water. They must always be laundered as quickly as possible.

MYSTERY FILM ON PREVIEW AT T. D. & L.

Ssh! It's a big mystery! The only thing knows about it is that it is a Paramount feature, that it contains eight reels and that this showing at the T., D. & L. Theater tonight at 8o'clock is a preview.

Not even the leading characters in this production have been announced, and H. A. Albright, manager of the T., D. & L., says that he too is in the dark, and that the public knows just as much about it as he does, now that they have read the first paragraph. Movie fans will need no further inducement than the announcement that it is a Paramount feature, for they will remember some of the past Paramount successes, and know that the new feature must be as good or even better than previous ones. Then too, the privilege of previewing a picture and deciding whether or not it is good, is one that a large number of theatergoers have learned to appreciate and value.

As is customary the cast of the feature will be at the theater in person.

Following the preview Betty Compson and Richard Dix, in "The Woman with Four Faces," also a Paramount production, will be shown. This is a crook play, in which the leads both enact startling and mysterious roles, in a plot that offers angles that are new in the crook and mystery film.

LA CRESCENTA NOTES

Harry Brown of India, who is the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown of Montrose, will make a talk to the Sunday school of the Community church next Sunday morning. Rev. H. A. Kelso, the pastor, will have charge of the regular morning services.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lee Woolwine of Los Angeles are guests of the La Crescenta Hotel.

Mrs. L. Potter and her daughter, Miss Edith Potter of Los Angeles, visited L. A. Potter of West Mayfield avenue during the week.

Miss Joan La Gue of Boston Heights, Long Island, New York, is the guest of her brother, Paul La Gue, 115 West Montrose avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Kemper left yesterday for a two weeks' motor trip through the northern part of the state.

The Aeolian Music club of La Crescenta will be entertained tonight at the home of Misses Betty and Grace Morrison of Glendale. The Misses Morrison were former residents of La Crescenta and retained their membership in the club.

Truths in Epigram

No one returns with good-will to the place which has done him a mischief.—Phaedrus.

So much is a man worth as he esteems himself.—Rabelais.

What rage for fame attends both great and small: Better be damned than mentioned not at all.—Wolcot.

WEATHER

Weather is the universal thing. It always exists. We find it everywhere. No country or section is ever without it. We presume they have it in Mars. There are many kinds of it. There is hot and cold. Wet and dry. Unusual and unusual. Pleasant and unpleasant. Tolerable and unendurable. But always there is something in the way of weather to commend or condemn. It is a universal topic. You can always talk about it, because it is everybody's weather, to like or dislike as he pleases.

It is something we cannot get along without. And yet there are some kinds of it we wish we might get along without. It is freakish and erratic, and yet over a long period of centuries it remains much the same. No two seasons may be exactly alike, and yet all seasons are pretty much alike.

Just now they are having unendurable weather east of the mountains and in the great Mississippi valley. June is ordinarily a tolerable month, if not a delightful one. This year June has been intolerable. Temperatures as high as a hundred have been reported. What is so rare as a day in June, says the poet. A day in June at a hundred in the shade certainly would not be rare. It would be well done.

There are rare days of delightful weather in the Mississippi valley, but they are infrequent and the duration of rare weather is uncertain. Intensely hot days are necessary in mid-summer as "corn weather." The restless sleeper takes comfort in the fact that the corn is growing while he is sweltering. That is about the only comfort he can take. And corn is necessary. Without it we should lose a great share of our wealth and food product. So humanity must swelter that corn may grow.

But whatever the weather may be, as James Whitcomb Riley said once, we have to take it. Science and mechanical genius have done some things to make us more comfortable when it is hot. There is the electric fan and the cooled dining room in the great modern hotel. But the pitiful story of long continued hot weather is written in the suffering annals of those who live in tenements and who go through long days and nights gasping for breath and the coolness that does not come. The unusual heat takes a heavy toll of life and especially of weak and sickly child life. It has its tragic aspects. But the weather god knows nothing either of favor or disfavor, mercy or the lack of it. The weather, like the wind, comes how and when it will. And we take it as it comes and make the best of it.

SOLVING PROBLEMS

The President, making an address to a comparatively few of our total number of people, in effect addresses all of them who have the ability to read and understand. For his addresses go to all four corners of the land, to be read, digested and pondered over.

It is so with the addresses of conspicuous men in other walks of endeavor. This is the graduation, or commencement time, in schools, colleges and universities, and we get the views of various preachers, teachers and college presidents on as great a variety of subjects as there are men to make the addresses.

Many of them this year take especial note of world conditions and of the social problems of men and women who make up our nation and other nations. Not as many, perhaps, read baccalaureate sermons and commencement addresses as read presidential speeches. But for those who read there is no end of suggestion, theory and declaration.

There are in the world many men of many minds. No general agreement is reached touching great national and international questions, except as to the things fundamental in human nature that need direction. But while there is much that is trite and general, there is little that is new and specific. Humanity continues to struggle along toward a goal, but just what that goal shall be is difficult to say. But at least we have the faith to believe that the men who would lead are honest in their beliefs, and there is something comforting in that.

One thing is certain and that is if problems could be settled by speeches and addresses, there would soon be no problems and trials to vex or harrass us. But problems are usually settled in travail, by struggle, and with pain and suffering.

That seems to be the way of the human being, the way of nations and the way of the world. It is not difficult to tell young men they must be unselfish, industrious, honest and have clear vision. To supply them with those splendid qualities is the purpose of education. But the education does not always effect the object so much to be desired.

Shun inquisitive people; sooner or later you will be sure to discover that they have leaky mouths.

Speech enables a woman to conceal what she really thinks.

After getting even with a man a woman isn't satisfied to remain that way.

A stunning looking girl isn't necessarily shocking.

MORE PROSPERITY

Senator Copeland of New York recently suggested that if each individual would eat an extra slice of bread at each meal, we ourselves would consume all of our own surplus of wheat and a troublesome problem would be disposed of.

An interesting suggestion, that might be amplified to cover many lines of business. If we can eat our way to prosperity, as the senator suggests, why not wear ourselves to prosperity, amuse ourselves to prosperity and so on down the line. We can eat the farmer into ease and affluence by consuming the extra bread. So we might make the butcher and the candlestick maker, the clothier, and all classes of people prosperous, merely by eating more, wearing more, seeing more shows and driving more motor cars.

There would be a limit, of course. For after while it would break us, or we should die of gout. But to eat our way to prosperity is an interesting suggestion. It fits the times. It reminds us somehow of Henry Ford's suggestion that when we need money the government merely print it and issue it. That is what they are doing in Germany.

What a lot of saviors we have, if speech were only taken as security at the banks.

An old fellow can win a woman's love and keep it—if his coin holds out.

A feeling of superiority is about all the satisfaction some people get out of being good.

Cigarettes Are Effeminate

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Yesterday they told women not to smoke cigarettes because it made them appear masculine; besides that men didn't like it.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

Now a two-gun sheriff down in Oklahoma, Tom Cavnar by name, has ordered his deputies to eschew cigarettes and take to cob pipes, because "cigarettes are effeminate."

Tom recently rounded up his official satellites and handed each a cob pipe and a pair of wicked looking shooting irons; then he delivered a talk on cigarettes, saying they had become "sissy" and advising his men that any one of them caught smoking would be canned pronto. I've left out the verbal decorations through respect to sundry good souls who do not realize the emphasis needed to punctuate such a speech.

Odd how the humble cigarette has lost caste since the women began smoking perfumed tobacco. No longer can Madame Grundy discourage the use of nicotine because smoking is a "masculine vice." It's masculine all right in pipe form, but it's strictly "effeminate" when rolled into dainty pencils and held between unshaved lips.

Now if we could only stamp a few other masculine vices as "effeminate" we might hope to make a moral dent in masculine ranks. The trouble is we do not want women adopting too many vices. Many of them can now swear quite fluently so perhaps strong language may soon be stamped as too "effeminate" for he-men. We would not have them hunt; at least I'd deplore such a descent into cruelty, sex vices are cheap and coarse, and poker is too expensive for the average wife's "allowance."

There is Mah Jongg, to be sure, but that is too new to be classified. At present it seems to be neuter.

Ah, but I have an idea. Since sheriffs and other devotees of he-man specialties abhor vices which have been appropriated by women, we might get them to abandon the sins which their authority, or the abuse of it, have forced on women. There is cunning, for example. Did you ever know a man to embrace frankness and truth because women are reputed indirect and secretive? If not, why not?

Hysteria is another feminine vice, largely practiced because of the effect of moisture on masculine resolution. Did you ever know a hysterical man? I've known flocks of them.

Now we come to a vice which has by common consent been wished on women. I mean gossip. Wonder if there will be any gossip in that sheriff's office back in Oklahoma? If not it will differ in one respect, and a noble one, from the average office where trousered gentry foregather.

Why not stamp gossip as "effeminate" and exclude it from masculine achievements?

We could carry on this line of thought for quite a while, but there would be no purpose to such a proceeding. These comments were made because of an interesting manifestation of psychology down in Oklahoma. We know now that shooting irons and cob pipes are correlative manifestations of masculinity and that the cigarette has dropped to an inferior position as an adjunct of boudoirs and pink teas. In view of this development we may hope that the cigarette question will solve itself, boys refusing to use the coffin nails because they are "sissy" and girls eschewing them because the men scorn them.

Which will relieve the Anti-Cigarette league of much responsibility and some publicity.

THE RIGHT WORD

QUERIES

(Find the error in this article)

Ralph A. Falcone: ". . . It reads as follows: 'I would like to have you read it . . .' In other words the writer means, 'I should like to have you read it . . .'"

Answer: Mr. Falcone is right; the second of the two expressions is correct. The three words I, would and like should never be written together. "I should like" is correct.

Leona Falk: "A says the following sentence is properly punctuated, but B contends that there should be a comma after apartment: 'I beg to acknowledge your letter of the 3rd, in which you advise that you will require the apartment which I now occupy from June 1st, 1923.' Who is right?"

Answer: There shouldn't be no comma after apartment and the which following apartment should be changed to that. Also, the letters st after June 1 are unnecessary, and "beg to acknowledge" could be improved upon. Note the following revision: Your letter of May third, in which you advise that you will require from June 1, 1923, the apartment that I now occupy, has been received.

Songs of the Poets

False Poets and True—Thomas Hood

Look how the lark soars upward and is gone,
Turning a spirit as he nears the sky!
His voice is heard, but body there is none
To fix the vague excursions of the eye.
So, poets' songs are with us, though they die
Obscured, and hid by death's oblivious shroud,
And Earth inherits the rich melody,
Yet few there be who pipe so sweet and loud.
Their voices reach us through the lapse of space:
The noisy day is deafened by a crowd
Of undistinguished birds, a twittering race;
But only lark and nightingale forlorn
Fill up the silence of night and morn.

THE GREATEST OF TROUBLEMAKERS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

PROBABLY the greatest of all trouble makers is our unwillingness to accept folks as they are.

More than any one thing perhaps this causes trouble between man and wife. The woman constantly tries to make the man over according to her notions. Or the man never ceases to find fault with his wife because she is not different. At last they settle down into permanent indifference or disagreement or they come to an open rupture.

This same thing causes alienation between parents and children. The parent starts out with a certain ideal of his own to which he thinks his children ought to conform. He fails to take into consideration the demands of the child's own personality. Of course he fails. And abiding estrangement follows.

Or the child becomes possessed of a certain ideal to which he thinks his parents ought to measure up. He cannot realize that they can be no different from what they are. So alienation grows.

It is the same way with nations and races. The most constant grudge we have against another nation is that it is not like what we think it ought to be. We have not sense enough to take it just as it is.

We often say that we constantly criticise such a one only because we love him so much and only for his own good. But it is usually not him that we love but ourselves and our own notions.

This is proved by the very nature of love. Love blooms at its best and strongest in the mating season when the young man and young woman are under the thrall of their first passion. At that time the boy loves the girl so much that he cannot possibly see her faults and to her he is also perfect. And while this love lasts these convictions remain. It is only when it begins to die down that we discover blemishes.

This does not mean, of course, that we should be blind to the limitations of each other nor to defects and errors. But it is one thing to know these and another thing to dwell upon and magnify them.

To love a person does not mean that you are pleased when he gets drunk or takes dope or commits a crime. But it does mean that in spite of all these things your affection for him remains, your loyalty is constant and your desire to do him good abides.

This world is going to be cured not by criticism, fault-finding, anger and indifference, it is not going to be cured by punishment and violence and hate, it is not going to be cured by that thing which we call justice but which is in reality vengeance. It will be cured by one thing and one thing only—and that is love.

Love not only is the sole creator of life, but it is the sole cure of life and all its ills. There is just one thing the matter with the world; there is not love enough.

And this does not mean that others do not love us enough, but that we do not have enough love in ourselves constantly going out toward others.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

FIFTY THOUSAND UNDESIRABLES

[Chicago Tribune]

A news dispatch from Washington announces that on November 11 next, the fifth anniversary of the armistice, 50,000 aliens who refused to fight for the United States in the world war will be permitted to acquire American citizenship. These 50,000 are persons who claimed exemption from the draft because of foreign birth. They become admissible to citizenship automatically under a court interpretation of an old law on naturalization.

The United States does not want such citizens. Their outstanding characteristics are selfishness and cowardice. They were willing to allow the defeat and perhaps the destruction of the government under which they enjoyed unlimited opportunities and protection. The qualities which would allow that pusillanimous attitude when they were parasites on our body politic would allow it if they should become citizens.

American citizenship is a privilege and implies responsibility, as it gives power in the making and enforcement of our laws and the defence of our institutions. It is regarded too lightly by many. Attainment of citizenship is too commonly confused with Americanization. They are not the same thing. Americanization means a consciousness and appreciation of American ideals and institutions and a willingness and ability to upbuild and maintain them. Too frequently that does not go with the incident of naturalization. Too frequently naturalization is merely a trick engineered by petty politicians to obtain added voting power.

The two things should never be confused. Especially they should not be confused in the case in question. The aliens involved have proved beyond doubt that their character is too low ever to reach the heights of real Americanism. Naturalization would give them the power and dignity of citizens, but it would never make them Americans.

The date upon which they become technically admissible should be marked by every federal judge before whom their applications for citizenship might come, and from that date on all applicants should be examined in such manner as to weed out these slackers. Then, when congress reconvenes the laws should be amended to make naturalization of such parasites impossible.

A SILENT REVOLUTION

[London Outlook]

A silent constitutional revolution has taken place this week, which will be duly chronicled by some future Hallam of parliament. The king's action in passing over Lord Curzon may have been well-advised, and perfectly right in the circumstances, but it does mean that in future no peer can hope to be prince minister. The great Lord Salisbury, who resigned twenty years ago, was the last of a line which included Russels, Derbys and half the great names in English history.

STUDENTS ON SEARCH FOR PREHISTORIC

Americans left New York for Europe June 25 to study the caveman in his native haunts. Students of the American School for Prehistoric Studies in Europe started on that date to visit all the important sites and view the principal remains of early man, after which they will engage in excavation at one of the most important cave man areas of southern France, Dr. Ales Hrdlicka of the U. S. National Museum, who was recently placed in charge of the school, announced in Washington.

"It seems to be becoming more and more likly that man himself originated in western Europe," Director Hrdlicka explained. "Archaeological specimens representing man's history from the earliest part of the Ice Age and possibly before have been recovered in great numbers from this field. The museums of Paris, Brussels, London and Prague are filled with them. In addition, there are now in those museums over 100 skeletons or parts of skeletons dating from about 20,000 years ago to well over 300,000 years ago. With all this, vast deposits containing cultural remains of early man have barely been touched and great quantities of scientific treasures will gradually come to light as the work of excavation progresses.

Six graduate students occupying positions in museums and colleges have already been selected on the recommendation of their institutions as students in the school, and will visit Piltdown, in Sussex, England, where the Piltdown man was found; the site of Homo Breladesis on the Island of Jersey; the Spy caves near Namour, Belgium, the Neander valley, where the Neanderthal man was discovered, the region of Weimar, Germany, where very important recent finds of ancient man have come to light; Moravia with its great collection of human remains from the time of the mammoth, Croatia with its collection of the ancient man of Krapinia and the vast deposits along the Vezere in Dordogne in southern France.

After a general survey of the sites and skeletal and other prehistoric remains, the students will take up actual work in excavation at La Quina, Department of Charente, in France, at the base of a cliff where very remarkable ancient human remains have been found. The work of the school in its two previous years of existence was largely confined to excavation at this site, but this year the program has been greatly enlarged in order to give first hand knowledge of the other leading prehistoric sites and remains of ancient man in Europe as well as to introduce them to the most careful methods of archaeological and anthropological study.

The School of Prehistoric Studies in Europe is supported by grants from various institutions which wish to benefit by archaeological specimens that are brought back each year.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

MUTE INGLORIOUS MILTONS

It was a lovely morning. The sky was dressed in pale blue with scarf of white lace thrown carelessly across her bosom and trailing off toward distant tree tops where her arms cradled this lovely morning world.

Soft new leaves, uncertain even of their color, shimmered and trembled at the unexpectedness of this new day after their long silent seclusion in wadded swaddling clothes. On the limb of an elm two brown thrashers sat, making love, unabashed by the presence of the little girl standing watching with shining eyes.

The teacher came along and stopped beside her. A robin called and was answered, and the pair flashed by and alighted on the lawn where one golden dandeloin blossom had spread out its fortune to the bees or the children as fate might will.

"See, see!" whispered the child in excitement. "They are picking threads for their nest." Sure enough! Mr. Robin had a beakful of excelsior threads and Mrs. Robin was eyeing them critically, head on one side, voice softly chirping.

"It is so lovely. There are so many beautiful things in the world, only you can't tell about them," said the child wistfully as she walked along toward the school. "We're having a poetry contest and the girls are all trying to win it. But I can't.

"Last Sunday we drove grandmother through the park so she could see the beautiful flowers and things. It was beautiful. Beautiful! There are so many blossoming trees. And flowers and birds. And it smelled so good.

"There was a pond with swans on it and they looked wonderful. And there was a lake with boats on it. Just like a fairy story, only prettier. I tried to make a poem out of it, but I only got two lines!

"'I was driving in Central park,
And I saw the beautiful trees.'

"That was as far as I could get. Other girls can write lots of it, but I can't get any words. Why can't I write poetry? I write what comes into my mind, but when I look at it and read it I know it isn't real poetry. Why?"

"Because you aren't a poet. Poets are folk who were born to sing. There are not many of them. Just a few."

"Why? Wouldn't it be nice to have everybody a poet?"

"I don't think so. You aren't a poet and I'm not one, and we're both happy. Maybe we're happier than poets are. You know poets have to feel beautiful things until they hurt so hard they have to tell them or write them in poems."

"Can't they stop if they want to? If it hurts them they can, can't they?"

"No. That's what being one means. You can't help it!"

"Then I'm not one," said she gladly. "I can stop it when I want to. But I can feel the poetry."

"That will be to content us," said the teacher. "The poets sing to us and we can feel it. That's a lot."

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Clark King tells me he has four-dollared his bank account to death. Now he is planning to build that more or less moribund article into real money.

"First thing I'm going to do is to throw my petty check book away," said he.

That money didn't come so easy for Clark, either. That's the funny part of it. When one gets money from the estate of an old uncle, it is understandable when the heir tosses it to the pretty birdies. Easy come easy go is as true now as when it was first invented. But Clark got his by hard work.

Then he got a better job and loosened up on life. He began to enjoy himself a little, as is right. Nothing is quite so foolish as miserliness. The young man who pinches pennies to the extent of denying himself decent clothes and an occasional night at the theater is either rummy or has a secret outlet somewhere.

"The funny thing is that I did not blow a penny," says Clark. "There isn't a cancelled check that I cannot defend."

The trouble was that he bought a lot of things that he did not really need. Enjoyment is a good thing to pay for. A good, hearty, rib-twisting laugh is the best investment a man can make. But Clark just chipped his savings away in driblets, four dollars here and four dollars there. When he got through buying he had nothing to show.

"No more four-dollaring," says Clark King. "It is the small checks that shoot holes in a bank account."

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

Ten thousand tons of tomatoes, cucumbers, cauliflower, onions, grapes, carrots, cabbage and other garden products arrived in the United States from Holland last year.

SWISS REFUSE TO LIMIT SELLING OF LIQUOR

By HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

GENEVA, June 29 (United Press).—That the United States "dry" regime hasn't created any wild desire in Europe for emulation, is indicated by the recent Swiss referendum, defeating by over 100,000 votes the proposal to start going dry gradually via the government control and increased liquor tax route.

The Swiss dry advocates, had been led to think that the average Swiss had reached a point where he was willing to tighten up a bit on his "schnaps," as a result of a recent referendum which successfully abolished absinthe. What he failed to reckon on was that nobody in Switzerland cared a rap about absinthe, while everybody cares a whopping big bit about "schnaps."

The proposed bill which was defeated by a popular vote of 357,779 against 259,608 provided for the passing of the 36,000 Swiss distilleries, big and little, under control of the government, which would have the right gradually to diminish the production. The government was also to have the right to diminish the private production of booze, which has reached large proportions in Switzerland.

In fact, out of 3,612 Swiss communities, 3,000 have their own private means of turning out "schnaps" and produce altogether some 80,000 hectoliters of alcohol annually.

It was largely these communities, the rural district, which gave the coup de grace to the government control project.

Switzerland's present alcoholic consumption is placed at $140 per capita annually and the project providing that in addition to decreasing the amount of "schnaps" the price should be increased so that it would give the government some $5,000,000 additional taxes annually failed to impress the thrifty Swiss, who has an initiative and referendum right to decide what laws he wants and don't want.

A well-known business man has a little daughter who has the making of a great financier in her.

One day her father called her to him, "My dear, said he, "a man this morning offered me this room full of gold if I would sell little brother. Now that means gold enough to fill this room from wall to wall and from floor to ceiling. If I sell little brother for that sum I shall be able to buy everything in the world you want. Shall I sell him?"

"No, papa," answered the little girl promptly; and then, before her delighted father could embrace her for expressing so much affection she went on, "Keep him till he's bigger. He'll be worth more then."

HOME NURSING and HEALTH HINTS

HYGIENICALLY SPEAKING

"Goodness, Tom, you should not drink so much water with your meals," said Aunt Charity, who had come to visit her bachelor nephew, and was greatly trying to remould his life a little nearer her heart's desire. Her own mode of living, Aunt Charity believed, was the only approved one in existence.

"Why not?"

Tom Lowe allowed his Japanese servant to refill his water glass as he spoke and proceeded with his breakfast as if nothing had happened.

Aunt Charity looked severly over her glasses at Hashi, the servant. She disliked orientals intensely. She did not understand their language. She felt uncomfortably certain they were discussing her whenever they spoke to each other in her presence. And all Tom's servants were Japanese. It was very trying.

Still, Aunt Charity had her duty to perform. Secure in the shadow of her Puritan ancestry, she took up the cudgel determinedly.

"Drinking water with your meals is not good for you."

"Why not?" Tom looked interested as he passed the butter.

"I never eat butter with hot toast, either! It isn't good for you."

"But why? Just on principle, or because you've 'been told'?" teased Tom. "I don't mind a little butter with my toast. I'm the picture of health."

He drank some more water.

Aunt Charity quivered.

"You are so reckless," she said. "There you go again, drinking water with your meal, instead of chewing your food and then sipping one glass of water afterward." She spoke very primly and Tom laughed.

"There goes your New England ancestry," he said.

"Now you know, Aunt Charity, times have changed since we were young."

Aunt Charity unbent a trifle. There were at least 20 years between them.

"And there is a theory, generally accepted nowadays, that water taken with meals does not interfere with digestion by dilating the stomach and diluting the gastric juices. You remember, that's what members of the old school used to believe. But nowadays," and Tom took another drink, "it has been found that water normally passes from the stomach into the digestive tract almost immediately, and that even a pint of water taken at mealtime will not dilute the gastric juice enough to interfere with digestion."

"How extraordinary," breathed Aunt Charity, half convinced.

Having no theory to advance against Tom's statement, she said no more. And Tom drank some more water while she watched him in silence.

"One thing we ancients do agree upon," said Tom when breakfast ended, drawing out his aunt's chair and putting her cashmere shawl tenderly around shoulders that were as straight as his own. "That is the advantages of a fireplace as a ventilator."

"I never thought of fireplaces as important except from an artistic standpoint. They are comfortable, of course, but what do you mean about ventilation?"

Aunt Charity sat down by the fire prepared to listen.

"Simply that the heat of the fire causes the air to expand and rise through the chimney. This leaves a vacuum which the colder and heavier air in the room rushes in to fill. And so fireplaces purify the lators," said Tom.

AUTOMOBILE IS REVOLUTIONIZING BUSINESS

BABSON SEES NEW ERA ON WHEELS

ALBANY, N. Y., June 29.—Roger W. Babson was today asked what is the greatest factor with which the banker, manufacturer, and merchant must reckon during the next 20 years. He at once answered, "automobiles." His complete statement is as follows:

"We all marvel at the great growth of the automobile industry, the capital invested, the men employed, and the auxiliary lines which have developed on account of automobiles. Some of us try to figure what this capital and these men would be doing today if it were not for automobiles—how many more homes there would be—how much more railroad mileage, etc. Very few, however, have realized that automobiles are entirely changing the fundamental character of our children and this in turn may revolutionize many industries.

"When we were children a 10-mile drive was a considerable trip. A hundred and fifty miles was a great journey for which we would prepare for weeks. Many of us never traveled that far until we were grown up. Today, however, the situation is very different. Young children will go a hundred and fifty miles for a Sunday drive. Our young people use automobiles to go to the store, and to go to church. It has become a necessity. We are raising a generation which will actually work and play on wheels.

"This cannot help but greatly develop certain industries and harm others. At present the automobile is greatly helping the building industry because of the millions of people moving from the cities to the suburbs and country. After, however, this exodus has been completed, the building industry will fall flat. Why? Because instead of a young married couple now saving for a little home—they save for a car—or rather they buy a car on credit. Less money will be spent upon clothing than otherwise would and a different kind of clothing will be in demand. New diseases will develop and a change in diet will be necessary. A generation on wheels must eat much more fruit and fresh vegetables than a generation which walks.

"Every business man should study this problem and ask himself how his business will be effected when a generation lives which almost never walks. The road builders will greatly benefit; but the shoe dealers must suffer. With a given population, less is produced by a generation on wheels than by a former generation which did not know the automobiles. If less is produced, there will be less to divide. This means that many people must go without other things if they insist on having automobiles, and my guess is that they will so insist.

"I believe in the permanence of the automobile industry—although, of course, many small manufacturers will be crowded out and 1924 may see an over-production of cars. The industry as a whole, however, is stable and is here to stay. The difficulty is coming when the man who now buys on credit, and assesses his employer to pay the bill, can no longer do this. Most industries can stand such an assessment once; but very few industries can stand such an assessment continually. The laborer whom you are now paying $25 a week can buy his first car and can assess you to pay for it by demanding $30 per week instead of $25. But he assesses you for his second or third car; and can his children do the same thing? Frankly, I do not know. Only the future can tell.

"The automobile industry is largely responsible for the condition of business today. The fact that the Babsonchart stands at one per cent above normal compared with 17 per cent below a year ago is due largely to the automobile industry. When one considers that during the first six months of 1923 most states will show as many new registrations as during all of 1922—it is remarkable that business has not boomed more. The only answer is that people have bought automobiles instead of buying something else—that is, the sales of other things have fallen off correspondingly. The law of action and reaction is absolute. Now what will be the reaction of a new generation which knows not the joy of walking?"

LONG BEACH SIGNS FOR BIG IMPROVEMENT

[By Associated Press]

LONG BEACH, June 28.—The largest improvement contract ever awarded by the city of Long Beach to a single contracting firm, amounting to $572,500, was signed yesterday at the city hall when necessary signatures were affixed to a contract given to the California Construction company of San Francisco for Belmont Shore improvements.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

APPEARANCES

My boy, you mustn't judge things by appearance.
In measuring men there is no steadfast rule;
The president of this great land of freedom
May not have been the brightest boy in school.

The field that will be richest may lie fallow
Without a sign of green upon it all,
The loudest stream may be the one that's shallow,
And turn no wheel of mill however small.

It's not the check book, big and full and fancy,
Nor yet the check all red and green and blue,
It's what is in the bank that counts, remember,
And as it is with checks, it is with you.

The noisiest speech oft bears but little meaning,
Remember it is said that Judas wept;
Words are dull scythes sometimes, unfit for gleaning,
The loudest promise is not always kept.

Full many a blatant soul you'll find about you,
Riding like Sancho Panza on an ass;
Declaring war on evil with loud shoutings
And charging shadows with a spear of grass.

So, Boy, don't judge things always by appearance,
Whatever else you may be, be a man;
That nifty suit you envied the possessor
Was bought, perchance, on the installment plan.

SOUTHERN IDAHO TO HAVE RESERVOIR

[By Associated Press]

AMERICAN FALLS, Idaho, June 29.—This little agricultural community has consented to plans for its removal to a new townsite as the result of negotiations by representatives of the United States government. The present site, according to plans, will be inundated together with 83,000 acres surrounding it, to make way for the construction of the gigantic American Falls reservoir.

Authorization of plans to build the reservoir, which will be the largest in the United States and the fourth largest in the world, with a capacity of 1,500,000 acre-feet of water, was given at a recent special election in the American Falls irrigation district. The district embraces approximately 500,000 acres. The cost of the project is estimated at $12,000,000.

The floor of the reservoir will contain 83,000 acres when the project is extended to the full capacity of 3,000,000 acres. All preliminaries have been based on the maximum reservoir.

The estimated cost of $12,000,000 includes all preliminaries, including foundation, moving the town of American Falls, the railroad, etc. The height of the dam for the American Falls townsite will be 75 feet. Addition of 20 to 25 feet will double the capacity, or make the reservoir 3,000,000 acre-feet, at the relatively small cost, according to officials of between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000.

DEATH VALLEY SCOTTY HEADS TO NORTH

By H. E. SWISHER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PORTLAND, Oregon, June 29 (United Press).—Riding in a light spring wagon hitched to a team of excellent horses, "Death Valley Scotty," known to gold miners the country over, is traveling north through Oregon, bound for another mine and a fresh start.

Up in the British Columbia country "Scotty" will spend the summer and fall months, working a claim with Al Tigard, for 30 years his partner in the mining game.

He's practically "broke" now, is "Scotty," and he is past 70 years of age, although he does not look more than 50.

And being out of money does not bother him, either. More than one fortune has "Scotty" made and spent soon after the making.

He first came into prominence in 1906, when he emerged from the depths of Death valley, California, with "dust" which netted him over $240,000.

It was the largest sum "Scotty" had ever owned at one time. But he found a way to spend it.

Hiring a special passenger train, the miner rode in state to New York City. There he saw everything there was to see which money could afford. Then he went on to Europe and visited all the important cities on the continent.

In 18 months "Death Valley Scotty" was back in the desert—the $240,000 gone, but with the recollection of sights well seen and with no regrets for the money he had spent.

"Scotty" still has his claims in Death valley, but admits that the heat there is more than he can now stand. He bears seven bullet wounds as the result of different scraps with bandits. Some of the bullets have never been removed from his body, and these, he admits, bother him at times.

So "Scotty" is bound north to British Columbia, up where it is cooler and where the chances for bringing out a "stake" are just as good, he believes, as the valley which gave him his nickname.

And if he fails to find gold, there will be no worries for "Scotty" either. His horses are strong, and so is he, and a man with a team can always get work, "Scotty" knows.

In fact, he is working his way north through Oregon by stopping from time to time and hiring out, with his team, to road gangs or to farmers who need a little extra help.

"I've been on both sides and the top of the fence," says "Scotty." "I've dined with millionaires and with tramps, but I like it best like this, camped by the side of the trail."

REAL BONE IS DISPLAYED IN OREGON

EUGENE, Oregon, June 29 (United Press).—A score or more local automobile owners put up an awful howl about it, and everyone agreed the complaint was justified.

Someone threw a match into a stream of bootleg booze, which officers were emptying into the gutter, with the result the rivulet was soon ablaze. Sheriff's deputies moved the string of machines away from the curbing to keep them from catching on fire and then—

An energetic policeman came along and tagged every car for being parked too far out in the street.
